
Once, a blue moon

It only happens ever so rarely

You meet someone & feel they're the one

And you just know, for you have a glow

But after a phase, you might realize;

When your energy doesn't yield synergy

You lose sway recognizing it may only be one-way

A crushing feeling takes hold, truth be told

Closure comes as you regain composure

A connection of cosmic proportion will flourish with effortless magic

And it will be opportune, once in a blue Moon

