
Reflections

Beneath the arch of endless sky
Waters mirror what hearts imply

A bridge stretches, delicate, bold
Binding the present to what might unfold

Once, a Blue Moon

It happens ever so rarely
You meet someone and feel they're the one
And you just know, for you have a glow

But after a phase, you might realize
When your energy doesn't yield synergy
You lose your way recognizing it may only be one-way

A crushing feeling takes hold, truth be told
Closure comes as you regain composure
A connection of cosmic proportions
Can only flourish through effortless magic

