

---

Foreword

---

Every poem in this collection began with a lived experience

None of them are about the experience itself

They are about what it eventually revealed

Venturing into the Unknown is not about exploring the world

It is about the lifelong process of discovering ourselves

---

Memories

---

They were years to remember,
For they were filled with fun and laughter
Years of growing together,
Discovering, enjoying each other

Sliding in pristine winter snow
Smelling spring flowers, watching our kids grow
Soaking in sun-filled summer days, admiring our glow
With colourful Fall behind us, wishing time moved slow

Now at a crossroad where a chapter ends
It will be difficult to say goodbye, dear friend
Though only the joyful memories of season's past remain,
Know that all the love and caring was not in vain

For there's not a bond stronger
Than the love that binds a family together
A picture of us, frozen in time
To keep, forever in our mind

